In addition to the AGM business, we are very pleased to say that we will be given a presentation on “The Cathedral City of Chichester” by James Dickinson. James says

“This is now my ninth year of giving talks on English medieval history. It has given me great pleasure to speak to well over 150 groups on a range of subjects over the whole breadth of English medieval history. I hope by now people realise that medieval history is inherently interesting and not boring. The extraordinary and the bizarre are always just round the corner.”
